HARIYALI

ہریالی

Trees, green spaces and young eco-leaders for a greener, healthier Karachi.

ACTIVE

What it is

HARIYALI, "greenery", is Taaluuq Foundation's environment programme. With students, neighbours and local officials, it plants native, hardy trees on streets and in schools.

Every tree has a guardian until it stands on its own, and student eco-clubs plant, water and count them. We report the trees that survive, not just those planted.

Who and where

Shah Faisal Town and Murad Memon Goth, Karachi, with our students.

How HARIYALI works

- Native, hardy trees
- A guardian for every tree
- Student eco-clubs
- Planting with neighbours and local officials
- Counting the trees that survive

Zakat: Sadaqah Jariyah, not Zakat.

Why it matters

Shade and clean air are health care too, and a child who plants a tree learns to look after the place they live.
